

Alexandria Gazette.

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 15 1893.

THE REASON WHY.—The southern Governors who have held a conference for the encouragement of immigration to the southern States strove to account for the fact that so very few of the foreigners who land at this port go to any of these States. They gave many theories upon the subject, and we do not think that any of them explained the puzzle. We can make a suggestion that may be serviceable to them. Instead of indulging in theories that are unsatisfactory and worthless, let them send an inquiring agent to Ellis Island, when the strange passengers come ashore, to ascertain from the immigrants themselves why they do not go to the southern States. Within the past few weeks more than a hundred thousand immigrants, most of whom would be desirable settlers in any part of the country, have landed upon that island; and if the experiences of this year correspond with those of the last year and of previous years, not more than a thousand of them all will go to those great and fertile and thinly populated States, the Governors of which held conference in Richmond a few days ago. Why? This is the question for the agent to put to them, if he can speak German and Swedish and Italian and English. In the course of a few months this agent can get a vast amount of interesting and important information, at first hand, at Ellis Island. He can correct the theories and answer the questions of the southern Governors. Last year, out of nearly 400,000 steerage passengers who arrived at this port from foreign countries, only 4,155 were bound to ten of the States of the South. Why so few? Ask the parties concerned.—New York Sun.
